

Supply List for Ponte Pant

Fabric: Ponte fabric usually a heavier, stabler knit with 20% to 40% widthwise stretch. Doesn't have to be 4-way (widthwise and lengthwise), but has to have widthwise stretch. For stretch percentage chart, download a chart here. This is your chart to keep and use when shopping in the future for knits. Scuba and Doubleknit fabrics are also considered stable knits, and can be used for this class.

Elastic Waistbanding: Best to use at least 1½" width elastic which you can get at Joann's. If you're using light colored fabric, use white elastic; if you're using dark colored fabric, use black elastic.

Pattern: Download and use the Barb Pant pattern from Stylearc. Be sure to pick the correct sizes (there are 3 included in each download)

Thread: Use Metrosene, Mettler or Gutterman. The shop has Mettler & Metrosene, so you can buy it there.

Needles: Use Jersey or Ballpoint needles. The shop will have needles, so you can purchase them there.

Fabric Resources: Joann's might have some ponte. Make sure it has the correct stretch % (using the chart above).

Online Resources: There are some remarkable resources online. This is a list of some of my favorites, but if you find another source, feel free to use that too. Make sure the fabric has the correct stretch %. I would recommend a solid for this class, unless you have a clear vision of what sort of print you might like to use.

Mood Fabrics: <https://www.moodfabrics.com/catalogsearch/result/?q=ponte>
<https://www.moodfabrics.com/catalogsearch/result/?q=double+knit>
<https://www.moodfabrics.com/catalogsearch/result/?q=scuba>

Gorgeous Fabrics: <https://gorgeousfabrics.com/search?q=double+knit>

Emma One Sock: <https://www.emmaonesock.com/fabrics?catId=87§Id=102>

Vogue Fabric Store:

<https://www.voguefabricsstore.com/?target=search&mode=search&substring=ponte&including=all>